Imagine if Sherlock Holmes and Dr Watson had a conversation like this:

‘It’s elementary, my dear Watson. There is no God and life was not created. The god hypothesis is rather discredited.’

‘Yes, Holmes, such religious beliefs are just myths from the past … Every time you understand something, religion becomes less likely … Only with the discovery of the double helix and the ensuing genetic revolution have we had grounds for thinking that the powers held traditionally to be the exclusive property of the gods might one day be ours … ,’ said Dr Watson.

The above statements were made recently by a real Dr Watson and his former research colleague, Dr Crick, in a London Daily Telegraph (UK) report.

These two ardent atheists are being honored this year on the 50th anniversary of their discovery of the double helix structure of the molecule of heredity, DNA.

The newspaper report states, ‘The two scientists who discovered the structure of DNA in Cambridge 50 years ago have used the anniversary to mount an attack on religion.’

Without doubt, their discovery was a milestone in biochemistry and genetics. But sadly, these two scientists’ disdain for the Bible and creation is reflected in the commemorative displays and paraphernalia associated with this anniversary.

The Science Centre in London (located right beside the famous Natural History Museum) has a display of Watson and Crick’s original DNA model, as well as an exhibit to teach the thousands of students who visit daily about DNA, genes, etc. I visited this display during my recent speaking tour.

It was so sad, in fact distressing, to watch thousands of young and impressionable students read such statements as:

Some of us think that we humans have a special place in the animal kingdom. However, the human genome is similar to a chimpanzee’s, and has a lot in common with the genome of a fruit fly.

In other words, humans are really no different to a chimp or a fruit fly. After all, from an evolutionary perspective we are all just animals—humans are not special.

Watson and Crick (and most secular scientists today) basically believe that because we now know from DNA that life functions on the basis of the the laws of chemistry and physics, those laws, not a Creator, produced life. However, this is an illogical conclusion.

Noticeably missing from the discussions and exhibits was material concerning the information and code system of which DNA is a part—which creation scientists like Dr Werner Gitt have pointed out—could not arise as a result of mere physical and chemical laws, but had to be produced by an intelligence (the Creator God)—see www.AnswersInGenesis.org/infotheory

As I walked through the Science Centre Exhibits and the Natural History Museum, read the newspaper articles on Watson and Crick and obtained a set of the commemorative stamps, my soul ached to see the AiG Creation Museum (see right) up and running so we can be more effective in stemming the tide of atheistic evolutionary humanism sweeping the globe.

I wonder what effect Watson and Crick might have had on the world if they had concluded, ‘It’s elementary, my dear Watson; just as Romans 1:20 states, it’s obvious there is an all-powerful God.’ They sadly didn’t say this, but we can! *

*AiG has refuted this in articles on our Web site: for example, see www.AnswersInGenesis.org/chimpDNA
You can help build the museum by ordering a dinosaur bronze sculpture by our own Buddy Davis!

Here's a profile on an AiG speaker and ‘evolution refuter’ who has been traveling across America to speak to churches (and other groups).

Dr David Menton was an extremely popular professor among his pre-med students. He taught for 34 years at medical school, and now devotes himself full-time to reaching the church (and some secular audiences) with the creation message. He is now blessing crowds nationwide with his humor, easy style and solid teaching.

Dr Menton gives nearly 20 high-tech, fully illustrated talks, covering topics from the Scopes trial to human hair. Four of his most-requested talks are now available on VHS and DVD (see p. 8).

I never quit playing with toys. From the time I was in junior high school, I knew that one day I would be a scientist. Most of the toys I requested came from the A. C. Gilbert Company, maker of the Erector set. I acquired a chemistry set, microscope set, glass-blowing set and mineralogy set. Later, a telescope and binoculars were added to my home laboratory.

Following my graduation with a Ph.D. in cell biology in 1966, I accepted a position on the faculty of Washington University School of Medicine in St Louis, Missouri, where I remained in the department of anatomy until 2000.

Under the shadow of His wings. How did I manage to survive in a high-powered scientific environment where Bible-believing Christians and creationists are a rarity? There is no doubt that the Lord ‘hid me under the shadow of His wings’ (Psa. 17:8). My colleagues treated me with respect, and my students said I was among their best teachers.

How was this possible, when we’re often told that nothing in biology makes sense without evolution? The fact is, evolution contributes nothing to our understanding of empirical science or biomedical research.

Today we are hearing threats not to matriculate, pass, graduate or recommend anyone who dares to question Darwinism. Sadly, even many churches have attempted to make their peace with Darwin, lest they appear foolish in the eyes of men.

For this and other reasons, I decided to retire early so that I might sound a warning and give encouragement to all who would hear.

Profile of an ‘evolution refuter’
- Ph.D. in cell biology from Brown Univ.
- Former research technician at Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota
- Associate Professor of Anatomy at Washington University School of Medicine, St Louis (1966–2000)
- Elected ‘Professor of the Year’ in 1998 by the Washington University School of Medicine Class of 2000
- Profiled in American Men and Women of Science for almost two decades
- Author of numerous articles in technical journals on bone, wound healing and skin biomechanics
- President of the Missouri Association for Creation, St Louis, Missouri

To request Dr Menton as a speaker for your church or college, call Mary at 1-800-350-3232, ext. 403.

Thumbs up for Neandertals?

Old myths about ‘ape-men’ die slowly. Even Neandertals, who are fully human, still struggle to shed their image as hairy brutes.

A recent issue of Nature exposed yet another false assumption about these mysterious people. A computer simulation indicates that Neandertals had the same ‘precision grip’ as modern humans. For details, see www AnswersInGenesis.org/grip

Walking through Shadows
Ken Ham & Dr Carl Wieland; foreword by John MacArthur
Why does God allow suffering? Author Ken Ham describes his family’s recent years of heartbreak, as his beloved brother Robert, a dynamic young preacher of the Gospel, died a long, awful death from a rare degenerative brain disease. Co-author Carl Wieland recalls his own personal tragedy in a horrific car accident twenty years ago, which left him horribly mangled. By drawing on their own experiences, and using the Bible to answer the hard questions, they present remarkable answers for hurting people. 144 pages. (Jr High–Adult) #10-2-142

DR DAVID MENTON’S DESIGN LECTURE SERIES

The Evolutionary Controversy  VHS & DVD
Dr David Menton
This popular introductory talk by Dr Menton summarizes his best evidences—from the fascinating design of the feather to the remarkable architecture of the honeycomb—to support the creation view of origins. He shows that our world and its fascinating creatures clearly display God’s handiwork. Dr Menton also disposes of some of the traditional evidences used to support evolution. 60 minutes. Creation in the classroom

Creation magazine is proving to be an effective evangelistic tool in all sorts of unusual places. Here are two examples.

‘My ecology teacher and I got into a conversation right in the middle of class about creation versus evolution. ‘[When we moved] into chapter 5, the teacher told me that I was going to be leading the class discussion, and asked me to present my thoughts on creation. I was concerned at first because of the short notice, but I read some articles from Creation magazine.

‘I had the class for an hour, and I got to go through a point-by-point explanation of why I believed that the Bible and science disprove evolution. At some points, he would say, “I have to admit that she had a good point—science does contradict itself here. I have never considered it from this angle.”’—E.D., Virginia

Creation is also effective in prison:

‘Your ministry meant a great deal to me when I was in prison. I had a friend there who subscribed to Creation. It helped me to overcome my evolutionary beliefs some of which I still had even after I was saved. Thank you.’—K. Estes, Virginia

Perhaps a subscription to Creation magazine is just what someone you know needs, to break down barriers to the Gospel or to build their faith. It’s a proven ‘creation evangelist’!

Dino-to-bird theory crashes!

Scientific American’s cover story in March admits the need to abandon old dogmas about the supposed dinosaur-to-bird evolution, and it grudgingly acknowledges that creationists have hit some sore spots. Read the complete story at www.AnswersInGenesis.org/sciampmore

The dark side of ‘evolutionary politics’

On the day after she gave a harmless talk about ‘Critical Thinking on Evolution,’ a chemistry professor was asked to resign her administrative position at a public university.

Dr Nancy Bryson, who heads the division of science and mathematics at Mississippi University for Women (MUW), says she had never received any negative feedback before.

‘The talk itself was not blatantly Christian/Biblical,’ Dr Bryson says. Yet after her talk, she said that other professors made ugly comments and sent out derogatory e-mails.

On the day after her talk, she says, she was ‘badgered’ to resign. But she refused, and so her boss later sent her a notice of non-renewal of her contract.

The school denied that the decision had anything to do with her talk. But in the end, the school reversed itself, claiming that the timing left the wrong impression. Indeed, the president reasserted ‘MUW’s absolute commitment to academic freedom and freedom of speech.’

Throughout her ordeal, Dr Bryson says the students at MUW have been supportive. She hopes her trials will ‘help open the door for a small but growing number of college professors who don’t buy evolution as fact but are afraid for their academic careers.’

Please pray

- that God will continue to bless the fundraising and construction of the Creation Museum (p. 3), especially during this uncertain economy.
- that Ken Ham’s recent speaking tour of England (see photo on p. 2) will be effectively followed up by AiG’s sister office in the UK.

The bottom line

All over the world, AiG offices* are ministering to people in many ways.

Our sister office in England has been especially busy, answering questions from people throughout Europe seeking answers to ‘stumbling blocks’ in their lives.

While AiG speakers are traveling the world to present Biblical truths, a lot of ministering goes on behind the scenes. Time and time again, AiG ministries have seen how the Lord can use even the smallest booklet to minister to individuals.

Here is one exciting example, shared by Dr Monty White of AiG in England:

‘In response to an e-mail request, we sent out a copy of our Is there really a God? booklet. The man then phoned to say that he had been brought up as an evolutionist, and that the booklet—and material on our Web site—had really helped him. He had started to read the Bible, and attended church.

‘Unfortunately, he was confused because the churches told him that he could believe evolution. He knew that this could not be true because Genesis clearly taught six literal days.

‘Over the phone, our receptionist and I encouraged him to put his trust in Christ for the forgiveness of his sins.

‘A few days later, he called again in a flood of tears because he had just been given new life in Christ!’

That’s the bottom line at AiG—ministering to people, equipping Christians and evangelizing the lost!

*The AiG ministries worldwide are found in Australia, New Zealand, Canada, South Africa, the United States and the United Kingdom/Europe.

The Web site called Space.com posted the ‘Top 10 Space Mysteries for 2003.’ Mysteries included:

- Dark energy—A search for the mysterious force that holds our universe together. Perhaps the authors should read Colossians 1:15 for the answer.

- Water on Mars—Certain that water holds the key to life, evolutionary scientists long to find any hint of a global flood on Mars (but not the Earth, of course).

Unsolved cosmic mysteries

The origin of life—The Web site admitted: ‘In fairness, it must be pointed out that there is little data to work with. Earth does not retain a record of what went on billions of years ago, when life got going.’ Need we say more?

Are we alone—Looking to bolster the myth that if life evolved by chance on the Earth, the search continues for life that has evolved all over this enormous universe.

The age of the universe—it has been put at 12 billion to 15 billion years for some time now, but every few months a revision or refinement is announced.’ At least the Word of God is not subject to frequent revision.

Despite all of the bravado that the evolutionary camp often displays, this article is a frank admission that they really have no idea about the origin of the universe and life on Earth. For true answers, visit our Web site, www.AnswersInGenesis.org.

‘I was sincerely touched by your [After Eden] cartoon regarding the God of the Universe knowing each of our names, even the unborn. It literally brought a tear to my eye. I love the cartoons, and the basis in Genesis. Keep up the great work.’ —John S., Illinois

CRT—A charitable legacy!

If you’re considering the possibility of a life-time gift in partnership with Answers in Genesis and your planning objective is increased income while avoiding income and capital gains taxes, a charitable remainder trust (CRT) may be the right tool for you.

A charitable remainder trust can be funded with cash, appreciated securities or real estate. The trust pays a fixed or variable income to you or your beneficiaries for life, or for a term of up to 20 years. At the end of the term, the assets remaining in the trust are passed on to AiG, enabling you to leave a charitable legacy to the Lord’s work at AiG.

You create an immediate charitable income tax deduction when you transfer assets into a CRT, and if you fund the trust with appreciated assets, you avoid the capital gains tax that would otherwise have been realized on the sale of those assets.

AIG, Thanks for a Web site [www.AnswersInGenesis.org] that has just grown and grown [into] a world-class site. Please pray for me too. I presented the entire Ken Ham video series several years ago, and this week will start to do so again. And thank you for last weekend’s speakers. I had the pleasure of listening to Carl Kerby and Buddy Davis [in Valparaiso, IN].

DID YOU KNOW?

‘Dinosaurs can easily be explained by the Bible.’

Did you know that some Christians say dinosaurs are just a hoax?

I remember after I had preached in a church in Australia and was in the pastor’s car. The pastor’s son piped up and said ‘Hey, Dad, how come you told us dinosaurs never existed?’ ‘Quiet, son,’ said the pastor!

You see, because he thought that dinosaurs and evolution went hand-in-hand, and that Christians didn’t have answers to explain dinosaurs, the pastor just told his son they didn’t exist. But what happens when you take your son to a large museum and you see the bones of these creatures? Obviously, they did exist.

And they aren’t such a mystery, and can easily be explained on the basis of the Bible. In fact, I believe the Bible talks more about dinosaurs than most other animals. You see, the word ‘dinosaur’ was first used in 1841. The King James Version was first translated in 1611. That’s why you don’t find the word ‘dinosaur’ there. Before these creatures were named dinosaurs, they were called ‘dragons.’ And that word occurs a number of times in the Old Testament.

Yes, dinosaurs did exist … and not so long ago.
